Dear colleagues,

The Editorial Office of Earth Systems and Environment (Springer) organizes the 2nd ESEV Annual Meeting (ESEV-2026), which will be held from 10 to 12 June 2026 in Marrakech, Morocco. The conference will provide attendees with the opportunity to attend numerous presentations by leading specialists, focusing on new indicators and emerging directions in research, development, and innovation across the multidisciplinary fields of Earth systems and environmental sciences.

The conference proceedings will be published in the Springer ASTI Book Series (indexed in Scopus and SCImago), and selected extended papers will be published in a Special Issue of ESEV (Springer). Further information about the event is available on our website (www.2026.esev-meeting.org).

On this occasion, we are pleased to invite you to participate in the conference (in person or virtually) and to share and discuss your latest research findings.

ESEV-26 Keypoints:

- The 2nd ESEV Journal Annual Meeting (ESEV-2026) aims to bring together and discuss the most recent high-quality studies on cutting-edge developments in the various research fields of Earth systems and environment, based on new methods, theories, and applications.
- The ESEV-2026 will take place from 10 to 12 June 2026 in Marrakech, Morocco.
- The main objectives of ESEV-2026 are to promote the exchange of scientific knowledge and to foster collaboration among communities working on research topics that incorporate diverse aspects of Earth systems and the environment.
- The conference is committed to contributing positively and constructively to the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development by publishing cutting-edge research studies focused on addressing environmental issues that hinder sustainable development through its proceedings and special issues. ESEV-2026 supports the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by promoting intensive research on these global goals and by attempting to address some of society's most pressing concerns and greatest grand challenges.
- ESEV-2026 encourages submissions of research works from all regions of the world. The conference will be held in person, with the possibility of online presentations. It will feature keynote talks, oral presentations, and panel discussions on new indicators and directions in research, development, and innovation in the multidisciplinary fields of Earth systems and environmental sciences.
- Visit our website (www.2026.esev-meeting.org) to read about our Publication Plan and discover our Social Program.
